

PROFESSIONAL LIABILITY

OVERVIEW

Shuman McCuskey Slicer PLLC's professional liability attorneys represent individuals and businesses in multiple professions, including physicians and health care professionals in medical practice claims, insurance agents and brokers in errors and omissions liability claims, and legal, accounting, architectural, and engineering firms in a variety of professional liability matters. We routinely defend professionals in cases involving alleged malpractice and violations of professional or ethical standards. Our professional liability attorneys bring years of experience in defending these claims. We understand the unique challenges presented, including the sensitivity of these issues and the potential impact these claims can have on a professional's career. In defending these claims, we will work closely with you to formulate a goal-oriented litigation plan and will work hard to protect your hard-earned reputation.

As part of our practice, our attorneys also frequently assist professionals with risk management and training designed to avoid professional liability disputes from occurring. We are available for consultation in providing information for you or your organization to consider in providing training on professional liability issues and can also be engaged to provide this training on your behalf.
